

Who We Are...

What We Do

We are a not-for-profit company that works in collaboration with Selly Oak Trust School to run a supported internship for young people with Learning Disabilities. This internship supports young people to become communication experts and learn real work and life skills.

Our Mission

We want to make healthcare services better for people with Learning Disabilities. Our communication experts do this by teaching healthcare students about communication. We have taught organisations such as Coventry University, The Royal College of Nurses, Birmingham & Solihull Hospitals, Newman University and Birmingham & Solihull Mental Health Trust.

Feedback from interns and families...

"I have a great time with C2U learning daily life skills, also work experience. It has boosted my confidence tremendously also learning sign language and travelling to Coventry university. We helped the medical staff with signs and telling them what it's like living in our world."

Dan (Intern 2020).

We just wanted to let you know how much your work has benefitted (my son). He has enjoyed himself taking part in C2U activities at Cotteridge church. He loved travelling on the train to Coventry and working in the cafe at Cotteridge church. His interaction with others away from school has helped him to develop his confidence immensely. This has been a big confidence booster for him.

(Parent 2020).
